EASLEY REAPPOINTS SPAUGH TO DIETETICS/NUTRITION BOARD

RALEIGH – Gov. Mike Easley reappointed Leolia G. Spaugh of Raleigh to the North Carolina Board of Dietetics/Nutrition.

Spaugh worked with the United States Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration, for 28 years before retiring in 1993 as an appraisal specialist for the administration. Prior to working with the Department of Agriculture, she was an instructor at Shaw University and a dietitian at St. Augustine's College. Spaugh has served the American Home Economics Association and the North Carolina Home Economics Association, the National Council on Family Relations and Family Council of North Carolina, the Council on Women's Organizations, the Human Relations and Resources Advisory Committee, the North Carolina Social Services Commission and the Capital Health Systems Agency. Spaugh received her bachelor's degree from Shaw University in 1957 and her master's from Howard University in 1962.

The North Carolina Board of Dietetics/Nutrition safeguards the public by monitoring those that are granted a license to practice dietetics/nutrition in the state of North Carolina. They are responsible for establishing the educational standards that must be met in order to obtain a license in North Carolina. The board has seven members, and the Governor appoints three members. Each member serves a three-year term.
